CITY AND SUBURBAN.

FREE SCHOOL-BOOKS.

The theory of the bill offered by Sen ator Williams in regard to furnishing free books for use in the public schools is that the funds necessary to purchase the books shall be raised by an annual levy, to be made by the boards of su-pervisors of the several counties and common councils of the several cities in the State. Mr. Williams holds that this method of raising the funds secures its absolute freedom from any trouble or interference arising from coupons—these "cutworms of the treasury" can't reach this fund if this bill becomes a law. The several superin-tendents of schools are made bonded officers, and are required, without re-ceiving any additional compensation therefor, to act as the purchasing agents for school-books, and permitted to buy the books in whatever number they find to be cheapest and best. The clerks of the district school boards are clerks of the district school boards are made depositories for school-books of their districts. They are to furnish the books to the teachers at the be-ginning of each session. The teachers are required to see that the books are properly taken care of and returned to the depository at end of session, and the teacher made responsible for any wilful neglect of duty in this regard.

This scheme brings the matter home to the people of each county and city, and thereby insures the economical application of the fund. No new office is created, but the whole plan is carried out by using existing officers, who are to perform the additional services rendered necessary by this act without any cost to the fund. The patron of the bill claims for the scheme that it is practical in its operations, and will meet fully the demands of the situation.

OUR WESTERN DRIVES.

Proces of County Roads.

Mr. Lovenstein has in his hands, and will introduce in the Senate to-day, the following paper, which has the approval of large numbers of influential county and city people : Whereas the best interests of the city of Richmond demand an extension of its authority over the Grove avenue and New-Reservoir avenue, or boulevard, in the county of Henrico, these constituting together a popular thoroughfare and pleasure-drive, and being the principal way of approach from said city to the New-Reservoir Park, water-works, and Solders' Home; and whereas any improvements made upon said avenue in the manner herein provided would enure alike to the benefit of said county by relieving its citizens of the tax necessary to keep said avenues in proper order and enhancing the value of property along said lines of improvements:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That the city of Richmond shall bave the control and management of said Grove avenue from the western limits of said city to the Soldiers' Home and of the said boulevard from the Broad-Street or Mountain road tions relating to the said avenue as it may deem proper and necessary. from and after its passage, county, has presented to the State, to of her uncle, Dr. James Jones, of that county. Dr. Jones was born in Amelia county (now Nottoway) December 11. 1772, was graduated at Hampuen-Sidnev, studied medicine under Dr. Benjamin Rush in Philadelphia, and completed his professional education in the University of Edinburgh in 1796. The people of his county, recognizing his ability and superior attainments, elected him for many years a member of the General Assembly, which body in 1809 elected him a member of the Privy administration of the elder John Tyler, Governor. He was a member of Congress from 1819 to 1823, and was four times a Democratic presidential elector. He died April 25, 1848, leaving no descendants, and his body lies buried at Mountain Hall, the home he built and adorned and which was the seat of a generous Virginia hospitality. Many remember the stately, dignified appearance of this old Virginia gentleman, and the words of wisdom and sound political philosophy which he imparted to those whose privilege it was to come within the circle of his influence and to whom was accorded a place at his fireside. It would be well if the portraits of more of these worthies of the old regime, many of which are doubtless scattered through the State, were disposed of in this way, and the State made the custodian of these types of the representatives of a civilization now numbered with the things of the

Miss Thomas's Benefit

The Dramatic Association of Man hester will reproduce the drama · Above the Clouds " at Corcoran Hall to-night as a compliment to Miss May Thomas. This drama was presented by the same cast at Cersley's Manchester, two nights last week to large crowds and with pleasing effect. The entertainment to-night will be opened with a concert by Captain Frank Conningham, Misses May Thomas, Bertha Voelker, Bettie Lubbock, and Messrs, W. G. Owens and T. G. Mathews; Kirk Mathews, musical director. Miss Thomas is a favorite here and in Manchester, and with so attractive a programme will certainly have a large

The merits of this case, wherein Mr. Finch contests the seat of J. R. Jones (colored) as delegate from the county of Mecklenburg, has been ably presented to the committee by contestant's coun-sel, Messrs. W. W. Henry and H. M. Smith, Jr. The main points have already been presented in this paper. The evidence shows that the colored supporters of Jones used all manner of idation against colored men who desired to vote for Mr. Finch, and the claim is confidently made that but for such doings Mr. Finch would have received a majority of the votes cast, and he new comes and asks the House to right the wrong perpetrated. Rev. Dr. D. J. nations. Dr. O'Connell is a most eloquent and pleasing pulpit-orator, and the announcement of his sermon on Sunday will doubtless attract a large and liberal congregation.

The Hosart Last Night. The five-hundredth musicale of the Association was given last evening to a crowded house. The programme, while of a high order of music, was popular and thoroughly pleasing.

Mrs. H. A. Stokes, of Fredericksburg,

Va., sang two solos. She possesses a remarkably sweet soprano voice and sings with decided taste. She was warmly welcomed and received decided encores. The duo for clarinet and trombone between Messrs. Jardella and Equi was one of the greatest triumphs these gentlemen have yet made. They were forced to respond to a rapturous

The trio for violin, viola, and 'cello by Beethoven, was admirably well rendered by Messrs. Kessnich, Baseler, and Thilow. The orchestra played with spirit and effect. The Baton speaks of "an item the other fellows didn't get " as follows :

George Meyer, charged with selling liquor to minors, was tried, convicted, and fined $50, and required to give bond in the sum of $500 to keep the peace and be of good behavior. The other cases of the same kind against Meyer were dismissed upon the payment of costs. The case of William R. Smith was called. Judge Crump, of counsel for defence, stated to the court that Dr. leorge Ben. Johnston had just returned from the city jail, where he had been to examine Mr. W. R. Smith, and was prepared to make his report as to the condition of Mr. Smith.

Dr. Johnston, after having be sworn, said that he examined Mr. Smith and found him suffering very much with a chronic trouble, and in addition he has been exceedingly restless from insomnia, which has produced such an impression upon his nervous system as to shatter it. He also has neuralgia of the muscles of the chest with a discharge of mucus from the lungs, of which at this time he was not prepared to state the true nature and gravity. He understood that Mr. Smith's mother died of consumption at the age of thirty-five, and he inherits his mother' physique. This fact coupled with his chronic trouble would indicate that he is predisposed to consumption. He is very much emaciated; he (Dr. John ston) in all his practice had never seen such rapid emaciation in any case. His whole appearance had undergone such a great change that he would not be recognized as the robust Mr. Smith of a few months ago. In his opinion is would be exceedingly hazardous for him to venture out in his present condition.

In response to questions by the Court Dr. Johnston said that he did not think Mr. Smith would be able to appear in court under ten days. The cases were

When the bells toll the hour of 9 TO-MORROW MORNING it will be the signal for the commencement of the GREATEST AND GRANDEST REDUCTION SALE of CLOTHING AND GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHINGS, &c., ever inaugurated in the city of Richmond.

WHY WE DO IT.

During the past few weeks numerous importers and manufacturers have offered a all or a portion of their stock at such radicalously low prices that we could not resist the temptation to buy, and the result is, with no winter and no snow as yet, we find ourselves loaded, loaded—loaded from the basement to the third floor—with a colour stock, in spite of the tremendous trade we have been doing— UNEQUALLED IN THE PAST AND IME

POSSIBLE IN THE FUTURE.

99c. WORTH $2.50.—At this price we offer 50 CHILDREN'S OVERCOATS to fit a child from four to twelve years of age.

$1.55 WORTH $2.-For this amount we offer you 45 CHILDREN'S SUITS from four to thirteen years of age. A pic-nic.

$2.45 WORTH $2.-At this price we will furnish you one of the best BOYS' OVER-COATS in the city, from four to twelve years old.

$2.65 will buy one of our competitors '44 SUITS.

$3.90 will buy for you a fine PLAID OVERCOAT worth $6, to fit a child three to twelve years of age.

years or age.

200 Men's good PANTS worth $2.50. We sell them at $1.25.

200 Men's Ail-Wool PANTS worth $5. now down to $3.50.

300 pairs Nen's Ail-Wool PANTS worth $5. now down to $3.50.

30 nice OVERCOATS (annell sizes) left, down to $4.25.

100 Boys KNEK-PANTS left—all wool. Grab them at $30.—worth $1 to $3.

Men's SUITS and OVERCOATS equally as low.

Space will not allow us to mention more.

Come one come all. Pon't wait for a brick house to tumble on you. The greatest duction-sale ever seen in Richmond.
